

PRE-HEALTH NEWSLETTER

September 2023 / Vol. 01

Welcome Back Pre-Health Students!

Welcome back to campus Firebirds! We are excited to get started on a new year and support all pre-health students along the way. To start a successful year, here are some helpful tips!

1. Attend our mandatory pre-health meeting on September 7th for all pre-health students. This meeting will review important changes, information, and resources necessary for this year.
2. Familiarize yourself with helpful resources around campus such as: tutoring, aspire center, writing center, professor office hours. These resources are essential for successful pre-health students.
3. Set a meeting with your pre-health advisors: Ashley or Mandy. We can meet to discuss classes, experiential learning, career pathways, and many more topics.

New Resource for Pre-Health Students

One of the challenges we face with pre-health students is sharing the important information with all of our students. We have created a schoology group page to share all of this information in a centralized location.

In order to gain access to this schoology page, you need to have declared a pre-health advising program with the registrar's office. This is an extremely important step for pre-health students as it allows us to track your progress and ensure you are getting support in your intended pathway.

Please reach out to the registrar's office via email or in person to declare an advising program if you have not yet. If you are unsure what direction you want, you can declare "pre-health", this will get you all of the information.

Expect to be added to the schoology page by September 13th
